This 3-session course covers the supervisor's role in job site safety, the true cost of accidents, and how to train and involve all employees in job safety. Discussion will also include information on managing OSHA safety inspections.

This is not an OSHA 10HR outreach class ... it is focused on creating, managing and enforcing safety policies within your organization adding a layer of understanding and skill for even those with OSHA's 30HR outreach training.

COURSE OBJECTIVES INCLUDE:

- Describe the safety responsibilities of supervisors.
- Determine the real cost of accidents, including direct and indirect costs.
- Identify the basic components of a safety program.
- Explain how to conduct a safety inspection and employee observation.
- Describe how to confront and deal with a worker who was observed performing an unsafe act.
- Explain how to perform an accident investigation and complete the necessary report forms.
- Identify the components of effective safety meetings.
- Define qualified person and competent person.
